POETRY.

WOMAN'S LOVE.

" Once and once only let me speak Of all that I have felt for years, You read it not upon my cheek, You dreamed not of it in my tears. And yet I loved thee with a love

That into every feeling came; I never looked on heaven above Without a prayer to bless thy name. I had no other love to share, That which was thine—and thine alone;

A few sad thoughts it had to spare For those beneath the funeral stone. But every living hope was thine, Affection with my being grew,

Thy heart was as a home and shrine, Familiar, and yet sacred too. How often have I watched the spot On which thy step had only moved; My memory remembers not

The hour when thou wert not beloved. I never had a grief or care I sought not from thine eyes to hide; In joy I said, 'Ah! would he were My pleasure sharing at my side.'

I bent above each old romance, And seemed to read thy history there; I saw, in each brave knight, thy glance

Distinct upon the kindled air. Whene'er I sang, our songs they seemed To paint thee only in the lay; Of only thee at night I dreamed, Of only thee I thought by day.

The wind that wandered round our towers Brought echoes of thy voice to me; Our old hall's solitary hours Were peopled with sweet thoughts of thee.

And yet we part-this very hour ! Ah!—only if my beating heart Could break for both—there is no power Could force me with your love to part.

There is no shape that pain could take, No ill that would not welcome be, If suffered but for thy dear sake,—

But they must be unshared by thee."

PAGANINI'S VIOLIN.

WRITERS, in deploring their own want of power. are apt to hint at the wonders they would perform, if they " possessed the pen of Sir Walter Scott." In the same way, a fiddler's spirit exults in the idea of the glories that would be his, were he but possessed of the bow of a Paganini. The mighty violinist was not insensible of this natural delusion in the mind of his admirers and imitators; of this tendency to identify the instrument with the marvel which it was made to produce. It struck him that somthing might be got by it; at any rate, that a violin of his would, if offered for sale, find hundreds of purchasers, too happy to give for it more than it was worth. It so happened, that while he was last in London, he had a violin to spare-not that, of course, from whose one string his bow elicited such soul-reaching "rivulets of sweet sound"-but a very respectable matter-of-fact violin, with nothing magical about it—an instrument fit for earth, but by no means ethereal. Paganini decided that a round numcontract, and a good-natured friend was deputed to be the George Robins of private life, and find out the highest bidder in England. Superstition and curiosity were, for once, slow in opening their purses. Nobody would buy; and after some weeks, Paganini said to his friend, "I am sorry you have failed, and that I have ers in this city.

With that deference due to Dr. Howe, we must state that no means of recompensing you for your exertions. Had you found such a parchaser as I wanted, I meant to have presented you with a sovereign!" Intended in the state of the sta to have presented you with a sovereign? 'Intended virtue is sure to be rewarded. Paganini found a customer in another quarter. The violin was sold. Its new possessor had a little talent, and a great ambition; had been applaeded on a small scale—he was now to ravish his audience with strains struck from the very violin of Paganini. The first fintasia he attempted was hissed—but then it was his first, and he was nervous. He got up a concert—the thought of the violin inspired him—but he was hissed, the money was returned to the audience, and he was reduced to the necessity of selling his instrument to defray the expenses. It fell into the hands of an enthusiastic member of the Drury Lane orchestra; he tried it in the overture on the same night—out of tune, unmanageable—leader angry, audience laughing—the violinist was discharged the next morning. It was sold again for much less than had been given for it—and had the honour of taking part in the grand performance at one of the provincial festuvals. Wrong again—out of time—rebuke, dismissal. Sold again for next to nothing—tried at the St James's Theatre on the opening night. "Whose was that violin," inquired Braham, the next morning, "that which, &c." Violinist quitted the orchestra with his instrument the same day. Its present possessor, we understand, it willing to give anybody ten pounds, who will except it of him gratis. But he can find no one, His instrument is a sort of Bottle Imp. It is a violin that is sure to get him into a scrape; and a bow, that, flowish it as he even proposites him.—It is a violin that is sure to get him into a scrape; and a bow, that, flowish it as he even proposites him.—It is a violin that is sure to get him into a scrape; and a bow, that, flowish it as he even proposites him.—It is a violin that is sure to get him into a scrape; and a bow, that, flowish it as he even proposites him.—It is a violin that is sure to get him into a scrape; and the refuse him of the remarks, with reference to her unimpaired considers in the constitution o His instrument is a sort of Bottle Imp. FOR PRESIDENT,

To the Editor of the Boston Morning Post-The following is a fair specimen of the immense numbers of letters and certificates from the highest authorities of France and Belgium, which were in Dr. Howe's possession, (and which have been in your office nearly a month, some of which give account of persons born blind or others restored to sight, and of benefit received by 2, 3, or 400 persous in each city) but which so offended his very delicate stomach, and no doubt that of Dr. Davenport's and Dr Booth's, also, that they were obliged to have recourse to the productions of the fig-merchant, and also those of the soupherring and sausage-vender, in order to tranquilize their

MR WILLIAMS THE OCULIST.

I have the honour to be, Sir, Yours, &c., JOHN WILLIAMS, Oculist. Boston March 17, 1836.

To DR WILLIAMS, Oculist, &c. Sir-I would hereby inform you that I was born in Limerick, Ireland, March 12, 1760. When at the age of six years, I was attacked with severe and obstinate inflammation in my eyes; so that, during two years I was confined to dark rooms. Through the use of various means, and the Divine blessing, I at length obtained some relief, but was occasionally afflicted in my eyes until I was twelve years of age. And since, my sight has ever been feeble and short; but by much reading it became necessary to procure glasses of magnifying powers, which I commenced using when about 40 years of age; and have continued them to the present, with frequent changes. In the opinion of skilful Physicians, I have at times been threatened with total blindness .-And now, Sir, I would express my gratitude to God, that he has brought you to this city, as I trust by your prescriptions and His blessing, my sight may be pre-May the Lord continue your life, and make you a blessing to many who sit in darkness and have no light.

JAMES WILSON, Yours, &c. Senior Pastor of the Beneficent Congregational Providence, Jan. 26, 1836. Church in this city.

Providence, R. I. Feb. 11, 1836. To Dr. WILLIAMS, Oculist, Boston :

Dear Sir,-By request of my father-in-law, the Rev. J. Wilson, I would hereby inform you, that he has continued to have his eyes dressed as you directed. He also wishes me to inform you, Sir, that his eyes are better, that they feel stronger, and that the sight is sensibly improved! He desires me to present you his kind regards, and you will please to accept the same from Yours, &c. J. FILLMORE, Minister.

Providence, March 16, 1836. Dr WILLIAMS, Oculist, Boston:

Sir-I deem it proper respectfully to inform you, that I have employed the whole of the medicines which you prepared and furnished me with at Providence, and to inform you that I have derived undoubted benefit therefrom. I am now seventy-six years of age; and my eyes have been diseased during seventy of that period. The films or clouds over the sight are diminished, but not wholly removed. I cannot yet read without glasses, and even then require a strong light. But dark spots before the eyes are wholly removed. I certainly am much helped, though not cured; and I know there is no cure for old age, with which, thank God, I am blessed.

My general health is such, that I usually preach once on the Sabbath; but spare my eyes as to reading, yet write considerably. With due sentiments of esteem.

I subscribe myself your much obliged patient, JAMES WILSON.

Dr Williams: Sir-I am desired by James Maloney, resident in Boston, to return you thanks for your kind attention to his case.

He has been afflicted in his eyes about 16 months; and has ben under the care of Dr Davenport, of Boston, without receiving any benefit from the numerons cuppings, scarifications, &c., that he endured during the last 12 months; and he also declares that he has received more benefit during the three days that he has been under your care, than from all the other means to which he has I am, sir, had recourse assisted us in every way, and for whose happiness our most fervent aspirations are constantly offered.

There are others also, whose feelings we should be grieved to injure in any degree, but as we have said, with the larger larger portion we are unacquainted;—from a part with whom we have had a speaking acquaintance formerly, we have received any but courteons treatment since our residence in this community; and therefore feeling ourselves under no obligation.

With Mr Wil iams we have a very slight acquaintance; we cannot say that we are an admirer of his peculiar style of quoting scripture in his advertisements, but that has nothing to do with the great fact, whether he does good or not. We believe HE DOES; and are not afraid or ashamed to say so publicly—but if we ever find that the evidence of our senses has deceived us, we will not fail as publicly to acknowledge the error.

To the Editor of the Boston Morning Post Mr Editor Aposte of the Boston Morning Post.

Mr Editor—As the Royal Apostle of blindness, seems to have lost himself in the fog raised by the frying sausages around which he continues to hover, and in which smoke he appears so ambitious to conceal his deformities, I see no advantage likely to accrue from a further contest with him. It must be plain to every reasonable man, that the mask has been stripped from his pretensions, and that he has been combeen stripped from his pretensions, and that he has been compelled to escape to the kitchen in order to shelter himself beneath the steam of its viands.—It has been, from the first, my intention honestly to state facts, and to hold up the pretender to the observation of my fellow citizens in his true colors, in order that our laboring poor might no longer be gulled by his quackery, nor insulted by his insolence. Since he has nothing better than herrings and sausages to treat us with, it must be evident that he is sensible that his malignant star is waning, and that all further attempt at prevarieation. star is waning, and that all further attempt at prevarication would but sink him deeper in the mire of public contempt.

The explanation respecting the hat, is not so full as it might

The explanation respecting the hat, is not so full as it might have been. The imperial Oculist forgot to say that those only were "not gentlemen," whom it was necessary to treat in a rude and ungentlemanly manner, before they could be inspired with sufficient reverence for his dignity to submit unresistingly to be fleeced of their last copper. In short, the charity of Mr Williams, is displayed in wringing "from the hard hands of peasants their vile trash," even to the uttermost farthing, and leaving them in the ditch whither this blind leader of the blind, is used to convey them. When I first attacked Mr W. I imagined that I was assailing one who, whatever might be his impositions, did nevertheless know how to appear before the public as a gentleman; but must now retire from a controversy with one who adds to a palpable ignorance of the English Language, a lamentable want of the common decencies of civilized life. I will just add, by way of information to the reader, that I am not in the habit of serving upsmoked herrings and fried sausages to waylarers, but hope he will try, in lieu of those refreshments, to make himself contented with a dish which I have presented him in the shape of a roasted Quack. of a roasted Quack.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.—The subscriber having completed a purchase of the exclusive right of the new and useful improvement in the Cooking Stove called the Improved Premium or Conical, takes this method to caution all persons from infrience. Improved Premium or Conical, takes this method to caution all persons from infringing upon his right. The stove to which he alludes is probably best known by the name of the CONICAL Stove, and has his name on the front. This stove was introduced into market in its present shape in the Spring of 1835, and about 1500 to 2000 sold. They have generally given great satisfaction, and the subscriber has made such arrangements as will enable him to supply the market the coming season. And as he has been informed that there are persons in the vicinity of Boston, who have already commenced manufacturing them, and others are preparing to make the said stove, he deems it his duty to inform such persons, and the public generally, that prompt measures will be taken to prosecute all such infringements. He also intends having an agency in Boston, where the public can be supplied with said Conical Stove on liberal terms, at wholesale and retail.

Senate. - After some private and local business had been passed upon, Mr Ewing moved to call up Mr Clay's Lands Bill. His motion was opposed; but on calling the yeas and nays, carried by a vote of 24 to 23-three of the Senators changing sides since yesterday,-Black and White for two, who, I understand, are opposed to the Bill.

Mr Ewing occupied the floor till about 31-2 o'clock, when an adjournment was moved, that he might have the floor to-morrow; but after two or three different votes, they determined to go into Executive business, and I saw the flag flying till about 5 o'clock. It is understood they have the nomination of Mr Taney under consideration.

On the subject of distributing the sales of Public Lands, there are various opinions. The sales, I think, for the present ought to be suspended; and the remainder of the public domains preserved at least for some years. There is already quite too much land in the market; and the revenue does not require any further aid from this source.-Most of the lands sold have gone into the hands of speculators, and been re-sold at an enormous profit. If any of the public lands should be disposed of hereafter, I think it would be best to grant it in small quantites to actual settlers, for a nominal consideration, conditioned to be inalienable for 30 or 60 years, or two or three lives. This subject demands the public consideration.

House. - The Fortification Bill was under consideration,

From the Boston Reformer.

"The bold, impudent, unblushing effrontery, exhibited by the office holders and their tools at the meeting last night, must convince all who are not of them, that they of that tribe are modest and discreet counsellors !!! and honorable

And who were they who distinguished themselves and disgraced the name of Democracy with such humiliating servility, such debasing subserviency ?-Who were they These creatures were, first, office holders,next their retainers and expectants, then the dependants upon accommodations of the Democratic Banks."

The above is a fair specimen of the style and principles of the organ of the Loco Focos of this city. That paper has often attempted to impress upon the minds of its readers that men in office had no right to take part in political movements; and they have proclaimed this exclusive and proscriptive principle while professing to be "anti-monopoly Democrats." The State and National constitutions and laws, have prescribed the extent to which office holders shall be disqualified or deprived of rights enjoyed by others; but these laws afford no rules for the self-styled anti-monopolists-they would trample down the laws and abrogate the rights guarded by them.

By the Constitution of this State, persons holding an office under the government of the United States, except Post Masters, cannot be a Representative, Senator, Councillor, Lientenant Governor, nor Governor. Judges, except Judges of the Court of Sessions, are subject to the like restrictions, and no Judge, except those of the Court of Sessions, nor the Attorney General, Solicitor General, County Attorney, Clerk of any Court, Sheriff, Treasurer and Receiver culprit. General, Register of Probate, nor Register of Deeds, shall continue to hold his office after being elected a Member of Congress and accepting that trust; and Judges of the Court of Common Pleas shall hold no other office under the government of this Commonwealth, except Justices of the Peace and Militia offices. These are the constitutional restrictions which the people have deliberately established, and as deliberately have guaranteed all other rights possessed by the citizens at large, to persons holding office. They have the same right to be appointed to every other office than these here named, the right of suffrage, the right to publish their opinions, to speak their sentiments, to use their personal influence, that other citizens have; and to attempt to deprive them of their legal and constitutional rights, by violence or by intimidation, is about as "democratic " as it is in the loco focos to attempt to make all mankind as lazy as themselves, or to burn their neighbor's house, as a kind of an "anti-monopoly" argument.

The real truth is, that according to the proclaimed principles of those who call themselves "anti-monopoly Democrats," none but a pauper or pick-pocket is qualified to belong to their party-their name, like Major Johnson's horse Spry, is only a nick-name. The "antimonopoly" Democrats, as they style themselves, are no more Democrats, than the turkey-buzzard is a turkey .-They are carrion-birds-the tail end of whiggism; and if the whigs wont have them, the devil himself must claim gagement by a very lame leg, which his physician

John Lang Esq., the editor of the New York Gazette, died in that city on Thursday, in the 68th year of his age. The illness of which he died (says the N. Y. Commercial) was induced by the great conflagration in December .-The destruction of his office and buildings, and the difficulties encountered in immediately resuming business, depressed his spirits, and brought upon him a nervous disease which has resulted in his death. Although his means were not only ample but abundant, the idea became fastened upon his mind that he had been reduced to poverty, and suck under it. He has left behind him but four persons connected with the press, or who have been connected with it, who were his seniors, viz: George Goodwin, of the Connecticut Courant; Major Benjamin Russell, late of the Boston Centinel; Col. Samuel Green, of the New London Gazette; and Mr Zachariah Poulson, of the American Daily Advertiser, Philadelphia.

It is worthy of remark, and a fact highly honorable to the Irish character, that not a single police case grew out of their festivities on St. Patrick's Day. Two large Societies dined at different places upon the occasion, at both of which the most perfect order and decorum was observed throughout.

The Atlas copies our remarks relative to the Electorial Candidate for Essex South, after we had stated that those remarks were founded upon erroneous information. There is a paltry unfairness in this which betrays the miserable shifts the Whigs are obliged to resort to in their warfare upon Democracy.

"Mencantle Book Reeping.—The manner in which this art is taught, conveys a very imperfect idea of the practice of the merchants. The great difference between theory and practice,—between the study of an art and its application to practical use, is too well known to need remark; and we think Mr Foster's plan, by connecting systematic book-keeping with actual transactions—possesses advantages worthy modes of business in a thorough and effectual manner.

His long experience in the counting-house, and saill as a penman, are circumstances which qualify Mr Foster in a peculiar manner, for the duties of his profession."

EITERS PATENT have been granted to Charles Lane for important improvements in the construction of GRATES for Burning ANTHRACITE COAL and WOOD, in open fire places, on a new principle. By the improvements in the construction of GRATES for Burning ANTHRACITE COAL and WOOD, in open fire places, on a new principle. By the improvements in the Lane Grate, combustion being supported by heated air, the most stubborn anthracite coal can be so freely ignited that the surface of the fire presents the same blowing heat that is exhibited by the interior. In this Wrate Moisture and pure, warm air, those important desiderate, are obtained, whereby those old objections, the destriction of furniture by shrinking, mjary to house plants, and the difficulty experienced by some persons in breathing a dry atmosphere, heated by anthracite coal, are completely remove. This Grate, for cleanliness, surpasses any fire-place, grate, w stove for burning any kind of fuel, and being got up in an egant style, will superseze those of other descriptions now in the.

The undersigned having purchased the PATENT RIGHT for the United States, have made extensive preparations for the manufacture of the Lane Patent Grate, and will receive orders at 24 School street, for the same, and at 62 Congress street, (up stars,) where the public are invited to call and see one in operation.

and the Acred Humors of Teeting Children—in short, for almost all the affections of the Mucus Membrane of the Mouth, Throat and Alimentary Canal. These diseases are acknowledged by all Physicians to te of the most severe and obstinate character, and have long baffled their skill and research. The discovery, therefore, of an effectual remedy for them, particularly for the various forms of Scarlet Fever, must be considered by every true philanthropist as an invaluable desideratum. As a common and perfectly safe family medicine, it will be found of inestimable value in cases of common Sore Throats and Colds—disordered state of the Stomach and Bowels—such as habitual Costiveness—Indigestion—Flatulency—Nausea and Vomiting. Also, in cases of weakness arising from Fever and all debilitating diseases—such as Consumption, &c—it will be found very beneficial as a cathartic and altrative, as it neither causes debility, nor does it, as is the case with the operation of most medicine, so readily dispose one to take cold.

The Vegetable Extract has now been some time before the public, and its great powers justly tested. Hundreds of individuals have successfully tried it, and several eminent Physicians are in the almost daily use of it in their practice, who are truly astonished at its great curative qualities, and are ready to give their testimony in favor of its efficiency and power. There now remains but one obstacle in the way of its very general use, and that is, the price. The proprietors, being desirous to obviate this difficulty, have therefore determined to reduce the price to 62½ cents per bottle, for one year, which barely remunerates for the great expense of preparing the article—this will bring it within the means of every person, so that no one need suffer for the want of it—and the poor man be able to obtain it for himself and family, as well as the rich.
